Comintern Urges Whole Party To Keep The Daily Worker

"The whole party must recognize the great importance of The DAILY WORKER. Not only must the paper be made secure financially, but it must be put on a higher ideological level."

—From the Theses of the Seventh Enlarged Executive of the Communist International.

Recognition of the importance of The DAILY WORKER for the revolutionary workers' movement in this country can best be expressed at the present moment when The DAILY WORKER is fighting for its future by support of the Keep the Daily Worker Fund.

The Executive Committee of the Communist International has well said that it is the duty of the whole party to make The DAILY WORKER finansially secure. In the present campaign for the $50,000 Keep the Daily Worker Fund only a little more than half of the party has responded to the Restraint Order Given needs of The DAILY WORKER.

While the whole capitalist press, during the meeting of congress in December every day featured material on the farm relief measres, the issue of the Seattle (Wash.) Union Record, Dec. 24, is barren of any mention of the farm problem. This daily still claims to be "The only Seattle newspaper thoroly covering activities of organized labor," and E. B. Ault, who was editor when this paper was owned by the trade unions, still writes its editorials. But it is now safe in the lap of the exploiters.

As if in reward for their failure to develop the unity of the whole working class, city and land, prac-tically all the labor papers appeared in holiday dress this December, well filled with advertising.

The East Bay Labor Journal (Oakland, Calif.) thus appears with a first page illustrated and printed in Christmas green. This was the rule thruout the land, rather than the exception. The inside pages were mostly covered with plate matter to the same effect.

That the readers of these publica-tions are thinking of the farm problem is shown by communications published by the Denver, Colo., Labor Bulletin. The ideas set forth in this correspondence may be con-fused. But that is the fault of the editorship that fails to present this matter properly and intelligently be-fore the readers. In the issue of Saturday, Dec. 18th, of the Denver Labor Bulletin there appears an editerial on "Cotton Over-Production," in which it is declared that the over production results from under-c sumption. But it fails to point the way out, leaving its readers more confused than ever.

It declares: "Farmers are like others who toil. They learn their lesson slowly and painfully, but it will sink deep once they learn it." Not only the farmers, however, but the city workers as well must learn "slowly and painfully" in spite of their present leadership, that is so busy attacking the Communists and the left wing, thus actually joining the enemy class capitalist class in its war upon labor's progress.

But in spite of the reactionary with its lip service to progress, the masses move to the left, forging ahead. Unity of the city and the land will be achieved.

Soviet Rule Is Stronger After Trying Ordeal

Nations' Attitudes Change.

"All those who are in continued contact with the foreign states could immediately observe an alteration in the attitude towards the Soviet state after the decisive events within our party were over. The press of our enemies showed their malice openly while the crisis was shaking our party of the control of the capitalist states, and which lead to steady comcrisis was shaking our party, and they did not conceal the fact that they hoped for the worst for us. The whole well of mailclous and bad will broke down immediately after the complete unity and solidarity of our party mani-fested itself. The last events that happened within our party are like a great national victory.

Economic Revival.

"Of the greatest importance are our remarkable successes in the field of our economic revival. To every one who observed from the near distance the difficulties of our grain export in the last year the difference in our position during the present year over last year is very clear, and especially remarkable. The financial difficulties, the difficulties that were connected with trade balance, payment balance and the internal budget balance were also overcome with great rapidity, altho, under terrible stress. Everyone who lives in Soviet Russia, and especially one who stays in the business life of the economic organs of the Soviet State, can clearly see the onsolidation and the internal regula-ion of the Soviet order.

Crisis Reveals Strength.

"I can say for myself that I never felt this fact so strongly as at this time after the successful overcoming of the party crisis, and the similarly successful overcoming of the difficul-ties of the finance and trade problems. Certainly our household is ecomical. We have to limit our exthe balance between income and expenditure is there. The active trade and payment balance is also there, and our money standard is unshakingly solid. The present budget is made with the greatest carefulness And it is just the study of this budge that fills us with the greatest confidence concerning the normal develop-ment of our Soviet State.

Enemies Harmless. "As we see on the one hand, the old and steady growth, so we see on the other hand the powerlessness of our enemies to do us any harm he majority of the government party in England gave expressions more than once to the desire to do away with us. The English government now is more cautious. But even if this were not the case the strongest against us would miss the Even if England did not at resent have the internal difficulties that give her her present will to peace, then it would be impossible for her to strike a very harmful blow. In world economy the Soviet Union is a necessary link and the other states know very well that they need our participation in the world economy. They see the consequences on the eco omic as well as on the political field.

State upon the political relations with the other states appear clearly every day. Even in those states where the government circles are filled with an-tagonism to us the pressure of these elements that aim at economic relations is to be felt.

binations and maneuvers, alliance and hostility. Our combinations and maneuvers consist of those to keep peace and to resist all plots and as-saults against our boundaries. We want to establish peaceful relations with all the other states. And those states that at present still prefer to stay outside will be forced very soon, thru the force of circumstances, to come toward us.

Asiatic Friendship Strong.

Asia are the friendship ties which are made thru historical neces sity and which unite us with the people of the Orient. These ties are be coming stronger and stronger. Such victories as that of the revolutionary Canton government in China fill every one of us with the greatest enthu siasm.

"In spite of all this, we have to see that we still have to employ all our, efforts for our work and that we still have to overcome gigantic obstacles. We are bearing now a great historical burden, and our road in the future will not be smooth and even. But if, while we are meeting with these difficulties and with these supreme tests of our strength, glance into the past and then into the future, and if we stop and compare the present moment with one of last year, we find material enough to make our determination still more determined and to make our steps on the road that is pointed by

Slaves of Mail Order Houses Need to Organize Against Exploitation

By DAVID POLLIN.

Recently I had occasion to speak young worker who is employed at he Montgomery Ward mail order ouse. The conditions existing in the plant by which each boy and girl must abide would shock the class-conscious trade unionist, or in gen-eral the American working class.

Young boys and girls are slaving for that Morgan-owned prison for $13 and $14 a week and upon expiration of one year's continuous service and if that boy or girl is militant enough to ask for a raise they sometimes give a $1 increase and in many cases a sus pension slip is handed to the particular worker for his or her discontent

Worked Overtime,

Very often an occasion arises when vertime is forced upon the workers. They generally work from two to hree hours of overtime and they are almost unbearable for the young workers. Every lackey in the building tries to impress upon the underpaid slaves that in his or her hand lies their job and orders from them must be obeyed; if not the consequences are dismissals.

Militants Are Fired.

At times when it is suspected that

At times when it is suspected that a certain worker has said a word to another one about organizing he is put out of the plant immediately, without even questioning. At the same time he or she is blacklisted, and in case the young worker amplies for a case the young worker applies for a job at any of the other mail order houses he is refused employment. This brings out clearly the fact that the bosses are well organized to ex-ploit, and the workers submit to their demands, by being starved out, in spite of the fact that in the business world they are competitors. This should cause every worker who is employed in these big mail order plants and who is being exploited to the fullcompensated with 30 or 40 cents and supper (25 cents). In the event that of mail order house employees and denounced by young worker is for some vital reason unable to work that night, few way of better pay and working hours excuses are accepted for their refusal and time and one-half for all overtowork and grudges are imposed on those workers, which in time causes their permanent suspension.

As to the straw boss situation, it is

150 Women Printers Employed in N. Y. Newspaper Offices

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 .- One hundred and fifty women are employed on 53 newspapers of New York state as proofreaders, linotypers or monotypers, Nelle Swartz, director of the bureau of women in industry for the state labor department, reports. Most of the wemen are day workers, tho the no-night-work-for-women law was amended in 1921 to exempt this group.

Women working under union condi-tions get the same rates as men, but upstate firms were varied on wages and hours where no union agreement exists. Differences of $20 to as much as $40 a week were found between union and non-union wages. Swartz points out that with only 40 women printers working night the efforts made to change the night work law seem of doubtful need.

CLASS CONSCIOUS LEATHER WORKERS URGED TO FIGHT FEDERATION ACTION AGAINST CZECHO-SLOVAKIAN UNIONS

Expel Czecho-Slovakiana

Not satisfied with constantly sabo-aging all efforts to establish unity, these leaders have not admitted into the federation the revolutionary leather workers' unions of the U. S. S. R., of France, and other countries More, they have entered the camp o the open enemies of international unity by expelling from the ranks of the international, at the 1925 Paris ongress, the Czecho-Slovakian unions n the boot and shoe makers, leather workers and glove makers. The only crime these unions were guilty of was that suffering persecution at the hands of their reactionary government which had dissolved the Boot and Shoemakers' Union, they affiliated as a leather workers' section to the Czecho-Slovakian One Big Union, the sole organization that afforded them shelter after the dissolution of the leather union in question and enabled

But that was not enough for the International Federation leaders. Atter expelling the Czecho-Slovakian unions, they decided at the Frankfort meeting of the international executive in June, 1926, to admit into the International in place of the expelled unions the Czecho-Slovakian black-leg union "Unie Kozedelniki," which had played a double zeme in 1922 when played a double game in 1922 when the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union of Czecho-Slovakia was closed down by he government in view of allegation nade by Johannis and Srba, leaders of the said Unie Kozedelniki. Gangster Attacks Worker in Restaurant While He Is Talking with Labor Group Messenger's Lunch Room at 1063 LOS ANGELES, Calif. Dec. 29. — A terrific explosion partially wrecked orderly manner after a lunch or late supper. There, too, it appears, a bunch of gangstrs have also been loafing.

Bill Harris, a painter, was in Mes senger's recently, talking with a man, who is a member of the "Amalga-mated." Harris had noticed on former occasions that two or three men sitting about had watched his group. As he stood there, Harris was suddenly wheeled around by a gangster, who, with the words, "So you'd like to know how tough we are, would you?" dealt him a blow on the right cheek. Harris instinctively squared off wherever to touch know how to the right cheek.

ANOTHER CHALLENGE ANSWERED

Miami, Florida, December 24, 1926. MY Dear Comrade Miller:—In The DAILY WORKER of December 22 noticed a letter that carried my name in regards to what I did in the ast few weeks in the present drive to Keep The DAILY WORKER. I can ay that, for the first thing, I do not know in what district Miami is and what other cities are in our district, so that we can organize and see to it that our district is filling its quota, after we will know what the quota is for the been decreased.

I must also say that I did little in this drive because of the late store which we had in our city and the fact that life is not settled yet. I also can say that I am not an old timer in this district and it is harder or me to lead a drive than for somebody who lived in this district for a long

Crisis Insurance.

In the face of the heavy drain upon the party and its sympathizers for money to support The DAILY WORKER, in the face of the crisis which still exists, we are forced by the gravity of the situation to do some serious thinking about what we shall do in the future regarding the maintenance of our paper. For one the management has determined to adopt what might be called a saner, more conservative, financial policy. We shall be quided by our resources in formulating our plans for the fut rather than by our desires. This will be a determinant factor deciding upon the size of the paper, the price of subscript the features to be included, credit, etc.

Secondly we must learn to exploit all our rest finance the paper, such as the sale of advertising space to friendly organizations and individuals, as well as tradesmen, the solicitation of printing orders, and the like.

Thirdly, we will never be rid of the fear of impending financial disaster until we have developed reliable DAILY WORKER agents and boosters in every important city and town. This is basic. Without this essential factor we are building upo These agents must build up a loyal army of DAILY WORKER shock troops, who shall devote themselves to the big task of supporting the paper. Every unit of the party must have such an agent. Every trade union group should have such an agent. Every fraternal organization with a left wing group should have a DAILY WORKER agent. The DAILY WORKER agent and his squad of DAILY WORKER boosters is the living back bone of The DAILY WORKER.

It is these comrades who will establish a sound founds tion for The DAILY WORKER on the basis of increased circu tion, thru subscriptions and sales. It is these comrades who will arrange suitable affairs for the benefit of the paper all thru the year, not waiting until a critical situation is reached. The DAILY WORKER agents and The DAILY WORKER boosters are the only reliable insurance agents against the future recurrence of our financial difficulties.

Nicaragua and "Military Necessity"

Readers will recall the simulated horror of the allied imperial s, and the real horror of their dupes, on the occasion of the an ement by the German Imperial government to the effect that, the invasion of Belgium was dictated by "military necessity."

Barrels of tears were shed over "bleeding Belgium" and, when man militarists followed the first statement with a characterization of the treaty guaranteeing the neutrality of Belgium as a "scrap of paper," hatred of the "Huns" burst all bounds.

The "scrap of paper" theory whose corollary is the complete ence in small nations of rights which imperialist powers are bound to respect, has taken firm root in the United States coincident with the acquisition of a dominant position in the world in genera and in the western hemisphere in particular. Speaking of the treat oncluded recently with Panama, and in answer to German press comment upon its openly imperialist features, The Chicago Tribun says in its issue for December 28:

The loss of the Panama canal would cripple the military and industrial effort of our country in time of war to such an extent that the defense of the canal is of greater importance than the defense of New York. TO EXPECT THE UNITED STATES TO TREAT WITH PANAMA, THEN, AS IT WOULD TREAT WITH GREAT BRITAIN OR GERMANY ON TERMS OF EQUALITY IS ABSURD. The treaty is merely the ik admission of a fact which every one knows: OUR COUN-TRY CAN ALLOW PANAMA A CONSIDERABLE INDE-PENDENCE IN TIME OF PEACE BUT NOT IN TIME OF WAR. (Emphasis ours.)

The kaiser never spoke with more brutal frankness.

The Change in the Policy of American Financcial Capital

HE manifesto of the bankers wa The manneau of the financial magnates of England, Germany, France and the United States. The chief impelling force behind this manifesto, however, is the change in the policy of the most powerful army corps of world imperialism, in the attitude of American finance capital.

American finance capital is attempting to break down the tariff walls in Europe because it is thinking of breaking down the tariff walls of the United States of America.

THE traditional posicy of American finance capital is a policy of high protective duties. British imperialism could allow itself the luxury of free trade as long as it possessed a world monopoly or as long as its hegemony was not shaken. American imperial-ism developed into a "junior robber" in the embittered war of defense against British large industry and has always shown a very strong tendency to high protective tariffs. The trans-ference of the hegemony from Eng-land to America in the imperialist competitive struggle led to a change in the attitude of the two greatest imperialist rivals. In Great Britain ronger and stronger tendencies to adopt a system of high protective tar-ffs are becoming evident, while in America financial capital is beginning o steer its course towards free trade. In America the accumulation of cap-tal is advancing with gigantic steps. No country in the world knows such owerful trusts as the United States

For American imperialism the exort of capital has become a vital aterest. In 1925 America exported $1,200,000,000 of capital, in the first six months of 1926 $533,000,000, and there is an increasing tendency to invest the exported capital not in state can but in the industries of Europe. Canada and Latin America. Of the leven milliards of capital which America has invested abroad, no less than $6,232,000,000 are invested in invested in invested. Of the lever, make it impossible for Europeustry. In the first six months of 1924 only 12 per cent of the American apital exported went to industry, in the first half of 1925 as much as 37 per cent and in the first half of 1926 as much as 37 per cent and in the first half of 1926 favor of breaking down the protective or cent and in the first half of 1926 favor of breaking down the protective tariff walls.

Financial capital is, of course, the

THE growing accumulation of capital, the increasing development of rusts which has already led to almost 100 per cent monopolies in all important fields of industry, the fact hat the export of capital has become vital necessity for American imperaism, the enormous investment of inpital made abroad by American nance capital, the increasing peneration of important branches of industry abroad by American capital—hese are the economic foundations of the significant change in the policy of American finance capital.

For the past year there have been symptoms indicating this change. For avorable state of affairs, which has lasted for years, have made it pos-clare itself openly, without any mask, in favor of the policy of finance cap-

The second political factor which

America rested on two pillars: a policy of high protective tariffs which reached its culminating point in 1922 with the introduction of the McCumber-Fordney tariff law, and the slogan of "Away from Europe!" In recent times American finance capital has introduced a more-ment against has introduced a more-ment against both, which is increasing in strength. The new slogan of American finance capital is:

"Co-operation with Europe" and in "Break down the walls of the high protective tariffs."

A MERICAN capital has invested so much in European industry that it must see to it that it gets interest on sisted in leading and betraying these in the party battles, great and small, in America in the last few decades, have been nothing but the farmers against the trusts.

No country has so many anti-trust so highly developed and so powerful as in America. The whole policy of Roosevelt, Bryan and LaFollette consisted in leading and betraying these and of breaking down the protective tariffs." tariffs which prevent the influx of this interest into America.

The economic and political factors uescribed above are working together to produce the new turn in the policy of American finance capital. The finance capital of the "eastern" banks, under Morgan's lead, is the pioneer for breaking down the well of high for breaking down the wall of high protective tariffs. Some sections of finance capital, however, are still in favor of high protective tariffs, espe-cially the elements whose interests are not in Europe, but in Central and South America. Two poles are constantly becoming more sharply crystallized; on the one side New York, on the other side Chicago; New York as the center of "eastern" financial capital being against high protective tariffs and wanting to introduce a "European policy," while Chicago stands up for the protection of the "American standard of living" and propagates a "Pan-American policy."

THE American Federation of Labor As the organization of the aristoc-racy of labor, is declaring its soli-darity with the industrial bourgeoisie and is in favor of maintaining the high industrial protective tariffs, as it is well aware that with the abolition of the protective tariffs for industrial products, the prohibition of immigra-tion, i. s., the protective tariff against the importation of labor power must also fall.

Without this analysis of the changes in the social structure of America it is impossible to understand the most recent manifesto of the bankers. The policy of the manifesto is the policy of Morgan, is the policy of American finance capital. "Away with the high protective tariffs in America"—so that American capital can better extort its tribute from Europe; "away with the customs barriers within Europe"—so that the industrial countries, where American capital is invested, can better crush the agrarian countries.
"Away with the monopoly of foreign trade in the Soviet Union"—so that a clear path to the Soviet Republic may be opened for capitalism; these are the latest slogans of American mance capital. The international alliance of the working class of Europe, of the proletarian state of the Soviet Union and of the proletariat of America must fight against these slogans.

makes this change in the policy of American financial capital possible is the new attitude of the masses of farmers to the question of high protective tariffs. The establishment of the system of industrial high protective tariffs in 1922 only succeeded because the masses of farmers at the same time stood up for the introduc-tion of high agricultural protective tariffs against European and South American competition. The great agricultural crisis which followed shook the faith of the farmers in the efficacy of agricultural protective tariffs ica, whereas, at the same time, in spite of the protective tariffs, the prices of agricultural products are low and are still falling. American finance capital is now, in increasing measure, finding the discontented farmers a

She tried to convey this tactfully to Bunny, but when he failed to heed it, she had to keep insisting, until it began to sound like nagging. Bunny remembered her playful remark to her Applesauce, "It's as bad as it we were married!" Dad and Verne had a lot of nego-tiating to do with Pete O'Reilly concerning the new leases they were putting thru, and Dad was invited to spend a week-end at this famous man's country place. Hunny had already met "Young Pete" at the university, in connection with athletic events. Bunny had been singled out for attention because he also was a scion of oit; some day he and "Young Pete" would be running the government of the United States, as their two fathers were running it now. The boss of the family was Mrs. Pete, who had risen from a section foreman's daughter to this high sta-tion in Southern California society. She was large and decisive; when she went into a department store she did not fool with the clerks, but strode at once to the floor walker and announced: "I am Mrs. Peter O'Reilly, and I wish to be waited on promptly." Now Mrs, Peter had Dad and Bunny to practice "society" upon; to shade hands high up in the air and remark the early cold weather and the snow upon the mountains And then to introduce Patricia, and to watch while Patricia did stunts which her director had taught her, and which gave Bunny an impulse to say "Camera!" Miss Patricia O'Reilly was tall like her mother, and had a tendency to grow stout too early, so she was taking reducing medicine, which juring her heart and making her pale and aristocratic. She had learned every motion and every for-mula so carefully that she was as interesting as a large French doll, and her mother beamed upon the young couple—a possible union between two great dynasties, and there would be a wedding in Holy Name Church, and fifty thousand people outside, and pictures on the front pages of all the newspapers. Bunny's thoughts went even farther—the "yellows" would interview Vee Tracy, and she would be cold and haughty, and in secret she would weep, and then catch a glimpse of her face in the mirror, and thought would come, "Hold it!"
